Innovative training at the heart of the therapeutic intervention

WHAT IS HEALING IN PSYCHOTHERAPY ?

For all therapists regardless of their experience

To better understand what heals...

And what we take care of!

An operational perspective on change

With each of our patients we look for what is healing and how to support the path to change. But we are often lost as to what the therapeutic work is all about. This seminar offers the therapist clear guidelines. Based on current research in psychotherapy, we will propose an integrative model of change, operational for gestalt therapists and taking into account the singularity of the therapeutic encounter. These contributions will be illustrated by clinical vignettes and proposals for experiential work.

Aims

Take another look at relational suffering
Use new concepts from research
Develop a clear vision of the therapeutic path
Discover the 3 key steps of the intervention

TECHNICAL SHEET

Organization of the training

- Face-to-face
- 4 days: 2 sessions of 2 days - To be adjusted

Pedagogical means

- Theoretical-clinical and experiential training in small groups
- Clinical work based on real cases brought by the participants
- Video illustrations
- Learning through experience and observation (supervised practicums, didactic sequences, video), role playing and sharing time

Our trainings are built around taking into account the specific needs and resources of the participants, which encourages their self-training. They offer a safe environment, in small groups, rich in resources.

Compatibility with EAGT training standards

This seminar is compatible with topics 2, 8 and 12 (Theory of Gestalt Therapy -The Gestalt therapist in the therapeutic relationship - Research in Gestalt) of the EAGT training standards and as such can be included in the minimum 600 hours of theoretical courses.

THE TRAINERS

Florence Belasco et Vincent Béja - Founders of IDeT

Over 25 years of experience in psychotherapy and Gestalt therapy

Florence and Vincent develop a unique perspective on the processes of change in psychotherapy.

Through their writings, their training institute and their commitment to research in humanistic psychotherapy within the international Gestalt community, they develop a relational vision of therapy that places the therapist's affective resonances at the heart of the change process.
